Abstract of the Disclosure

There is provided a layout system with order-placement capability that is suitable for improving the efficiency of a process from designing a layout to placing an order for layout.

The layout system 100 includes layout section 110 for performing layout according to user operations and layout order placing section 140 for placing an order for layout, depending on a layout result provided by the layout section 110.

5